Contest Rules

The 2008 FAI rules for radio controlled gliders class F3J in accordance with the implemented regulations of MCM apply as:

- There are no official time keepers for every pilot; the pilots or their helpers are responsible for the time keeping. They give their result to the contest director while showing their stop watch.
There are done control measurements by some officials; if the difference between this time and the official time is greater than 2 seconds the pilot gets a zero result.
- Landing points will be counted between 100 and 90 separately each 20 cm, i.e. 0-20 cm: => 100, 20-40 cm => 99, 40-60 cm 98, 60-80 cm => 97, and so on.
- Frequency separation is reduced to 10 khz spacing.
- There may be some restrictions concerning the flight area out of safety reasons. This is announced by the contest director in time.
There is a pre-warning if a model enters this restricted area the first time.

- To speed up the contest run the ground anchors remain staked in at the marked positions during the whole contest. They should be used by the towing teams during launch. Separate anchors may be used if necessary by the teams.
- To practise this rule it is necessary that a minimum of 10 teams provide their ground anchors to the organizer before starting the contest (please state that on the entry form). These anchors are to be driven in on marked spots and stay there for the whole contest. Every competitor or helper is responsible for the correct fitting before using them for the launch. The organizer isn't liable for any injuries in case of improper use. Every competitor flies on his own risk and liability.
